

A Petition Opposing the Chuitna Coal Strip Mine

To: The Governor of Alaska

WHEREAS, Upper Cook Inlet supports important fish and game resources, including salmon, bear, and moose, that provide essential subsistence, sport and commercial fishing and hunting opportunities;

WHEREAS, PacRim Coal, a Delaware corporation owned by wealthy Texans, is seeking state and federal permits to develop the Chuitna coal strip mine 45 miles west of Anchorage, along the shores of Cook Inlet, near the communities of Tyonek and Beluga;

WHEREAS, the proposed Chuitna coal strip mine would, if fully developed, destroy roughly 30 square miles of fish and game habitat, and would discharge millions of gallons of mine waste each day into the salmon-rich watershed of the Chuitna River and into Cook Inlet fisheries;

WHEREAS, commercial coal use will aggravate climate change in Alaska where the effects of global warming are readily apparent, and will add mercury to Alaska's prized fisheries;

WHEREAS, coal dust is a public health hazard having acute health effects including asthma and other respiratory illnesses, of which children are especially vulnerable;

WHEREAS, the Cook Inlet region boasts substantial coal reserves, and the Chuitna coal project will set an important precedent for coal strip mining and fish and game management for many years to come;

WHEREAS, Cook Inlet possesses world class energy resources, including natural gas, wind, tidal and geothermal resources, that can produce cleaner energy and lasting jobs, and investments in coal will preclude development of better alternatives.

NOW, THEREFORE, THE UNDERSIGNED DO HEREBY OPPOSE THE PROPOSED CHUITNA COAL STRIP MINE.

Dated this 3rd day of February 2010

Sincerely,

- 1 Will Schlein Homer, AK
- 2 Mathew M. Cannava, MD Soldotna, AK
We live in Alaska for it's wilderness, wildlife and beauty. If we WANTED Butte, Montana...we'd LIVE in Butte, Montana. To allow anyone, let alone an Outside company to destroy this area (remediation is a cruel joke) would be unconscionable. Do we NEED to repeat the mistakes of others? Let's be SMARTER and focus on developing sources of renewable and clean energy.
- 3 Ray Bulson/Wilderness Visions, Inc. Eagle River, AK
Coal has a legacy of destruction in its extraction and use. Strip mining, despite numerous federal, state, and local permits, destroys environments, the lives and livelihoods of those near coal mines, and the general public health. Burning coal produces more greenhouse gases than any other fossil fuel. In addition it poisons our lands with toxic mercury, and gets into our foodchain which affects the health of our children. Coal's time has passed, even though many will try to convince us that there is such a thing as "clean coal." Why pursue coal today when soon it will be heavily taxed for its carbon footprint and will be the least desirable of energy sources? Alaska should be proactive and choose clean, sustainable energy alternatives. Let's not repeat the mistakes made in the Lower 48.

Coal is the last option Alaska should consider for energy production. Lets save wild salmon for the future
- 6 Ryan Hickel Anchorage, Alaska
The last thing Alaska needs to be doing is strip mining coal in a sensitive and fish abundant watershed like Cook Inlet. Mercury deposition (primarily from coal fired power plants) has polluted over 40% of the USA's watersheds, often to the point that fish consumption is banned or extremely circumscribed. Furthermore, coal is a primary cause of global warming and Alaska shares in the global responsibility to move away from the burning of fossil fuels. Let's not encourage China who is starting up a new (and unfiltered) coal fired power plant a week. We should be encouraging the development of Wave and Tidal energy development in Cook Inlet instead.

I have sea kayaked these waters along west C.I. four times. Sometimes coming from the Big Su and sometimes coming across from Fire Island. Please look at the Alaskan Atlas p81 and 82. Notice how the mud is in the inlet. If you are going south on an out going tide you have no choice but to shoot for the Ladd/Tyonek area or you will get stuck in the mud. Because this area is where the gravel becomes reachable even at low tide this is where small boaters must land. I have drunk the waters of the Chuitna River on at least two occasions and I was very grateful for them. Also I have spent some time on these beaches and have some idea of what goes on there. The Chuitna is to Tyonek as Ship Creek is to Anchorage. On weekends in the summer you almost always see people hanging out about the Chuitnas mouth. Old timers with set nets on their four wheelers. People out in the grass hiking to smokers with fish in their packs. Only the Tobona have the right to kill the Chuitna. And maybe not even them.

I am a 31-year resident of the Kenai Peninsula Borough. I think the Proposed Chuitna Coal Mine Project would be an enormous mistake and urge against it. Coal is the biggest source of mercury contamination in the air and, ultimately, the fish we eat. Coal wouldn't do much to help us market Alaska Wild Salmon as a healthful, pollutant-free product. And coal is the worst offender when it comes to greenhouse gases. Alaska is among the hardest hit places in terms of human induced climate disruption. How will we pay to treat coal related health problems and remediate effects of increasing the atmospheric load of greenhouse gasses? The potential is high in our area for developing alternative sources of energy and enjoying the economic growth and long-term jobs associated with it. Wind, tidal, and geothermal projects are not the stuff of science fiction. They are within our grasp if we are alert enough to seize the opportunity. Let's do so now by refusing to support the Chuitna Coal Project.

We need to develop long term environmental/renewable resource driven economic plans. It is not coal or timber or oil. It is ecotourism. Focus on providing sustainable resource management on providing those high income activities such as wildlife viewing; river rafting; kayaking; volunteer ecotourism for agriculture, rural indigenous people culture; clean air; clean water; natural scenery. THAT is what this State should be achieving for long term sustainable economics. Tourists spend billions to travel to Africa; Antartice; Peru; China; they will stop coming here when Alaska is like any other US State with all the same problems.

I'm a fisherman and I oppose the developing huge strip mines so close to Cook Inlet. I live in Anchorage and don't want either the coal dust or the murcury pollution from coal mining and burning. We've got much better technology than what the MEA is proposing: clean and renewable energy. I didn't make my home in Alaska so it could go down the same shattered path that the East coast has traveled. Yes, keep my backyard clean. Kill the MEA coal project.

When will we Alaskans learn from our history and stop the "rape and pillage" of Alaska and her resources? It is absolutely time to use what we know: coal is dirty and polluting, strip mining will pollute the water and tear up the land, and mining companies do not follow through on reclamation. These practices have long term negative effects, and we can do better. Strip mining is a thing of the past. Please help Alaska shift to renewable and sustainable energy today.

our country's current energy policy seems to be more of the same old same old, in this case a return to the very old. coal has always been and still is a very dirty source of energy. i grew up in northeastern PA and have seen the byproducts of this industrty: from unsightly tilling piles to perpeptual mine fires to the death of my grandfather from blacklung. we as a state can take the forefront on our other more "friendly" enegy sources, we must decide that what has passed for acceptable for the sake of ease will not be tolerated for what is right. we are a leader in the energy field and we should also be The leader in alternative energy. i generally do not like to use the alternative wordadge because enery is energy. we have burnt coal because it it easy. i for onr would rather work harder to do what is right.

 I am a life long Alaskan citizen opposed to the Chuitna Coal Strip Mine. The endangered Cook Inlet Beluga Whale would be impacted by this development, and the peoples of Tyonek and Beluga and Anchorage. The health of every creature in and around Cook Inlet is already being affected by many sources of pollution from Anchorage and drilling platforms. Tourism, commercial and subsistence hunting and fishing and the health and well being of families, culture and communities have priorities over outside (Texas) mineral development companies. The State of Alaska is not supposed to be a cheap real estate broker. Lets see some emphasis put on healthy villages and cities for a change. NO COAL BURNING GENERATORS! NO CHUITNA COAL STRIP MINE!!
- 340 Soren Wuerth Ketchikan
 This mine's production, coal transport, and coal use would likely result in more carbon emissions than all the lightbulbs in the United States. Experts give us 10 years to stem our carbon output before global warming results in irreversible catastrophe. It's time to wake up and recognize the urgency of saving the planet.

 The Chuitna Drainage is no place for an open pit coal mine. The salmon spawning areas are too fragile and too important for sport and commercial fisheries to withstand mine run-off, and trace metals from coal dust. If any commercial development should be done in this area it should be more gas exploration and production. Natural gas production has less of an impact on the environment than coal mines and is cleaner burning fuel than coal.

I voted for you trusting partly because you are a woman you would hold resource extraction companies to a standard of environmental integrity while developing Alaska's resources. Please ask three questions when these requests are made of Alaska and its communities.1. Is it in harmony for the land and people? 2. Does it pay its own way? 3.Is this respectful in a 7 generation timeframe to all communities: human, plant, animal, shore, mountain, river, and spiritual? Listen to the whole truth of businesses claims and communities concerns. Be boldly rigorous in overcoming fear for Alaska. This big place requires strength of heart to govern.

545	Stuart Grenier I am sorry this is my second comment on this petition. But I have learned something that needs to be shared. Many folks in the Susitna River drainage have reported that the salmon are vanishing. Trapper Lake, Red Shirt Lake, Big Lake. In Big Lake it may be due to the pollution from the motor sports crowd that also made the state	Muldoon Alaska close it and Lake Lucile is the same. In Red Shirt and Trapper Lake the near complete loss of salmon is thought to be due to the introduction of Pike. Folks in Alexander Creek have also said to me the numbers of salmon are dropping and the river is full of introduced pike. I have been to the Chuitna and have never seen pike. If it is true the Chuitna is pike free and that pike are destroying the salmon runs in the Susitna drainage than it is the duty of people everywhere to protect this river. Someone please tell me I am wrong on any of these points. The Gov. is a lake front property owner. She knows these things. Sarah we need your leadership here.

Pebble Mine and now this! Alaska peoples and government should not support projects that ultimately destroy its environments regardless of the alleged economic benefits to Alaskans. Additional mercury in our seafood is the last element we need added. <http://www.oceansalive.org>

We don't need a coal mine here
- 554 Kevin R. Tubbs Anchorage, AK
This is the WORST idea I can possibly think of for the pristine wetlands and salmon streams of the Chuit and Upper Lone Creek area. Must EVERYTHING be about the money? Can't we just leave SOME land, so accessible to Alaskans as a place for hunting and fishing and doing the things we live in Alaska to do??? This whole project is ALREADY a scar on the land and a bad decision for All Alaskans. PLEASE STOP THE CHUIT COAL PROJECT.

I am a property owner in Beluga. The proposed conveyor belt will run abt 2 miles from my retirement home. The mine will destroy the lifestyle we have been working & saving for. My husband was born in coal country (OHIO) & we have seen the horrifying effects of coal dust on the health of relatives, not to mention that all of Perry Co., OH has to have city water. Most of the county is very rural and all of the water is bad! Little reclamation has been done in almost 30 years. When Peabody Coal was done stripping the farmland, it could be purchased for $1.00 per acre. That was not a good deal even at that price. Please do whatever you can to stop this destruction and future pollution to our wonderful state.

Cook Inlet, and Alaska, are too valuable of a natural resource for present and future generations to be polluted, habitat destroyed for a coal strip mine. There are better and safe ways to harness our natural resources.
- 748 Neil Homer, Alaska
- 749 Kendra Zamzow Anchorage, Alaska
As a former Prince William Sound commercial fisherman, I object to this mine because it would impact salmon streams and likely impact the Chuitna River, one of the few king salmon streams in the Mat-Su. I also object to digging up Alaska coal so that it can be burned, releasing mercury that returns to the Arctic and builds up in our fish. Despite the many fisheries in Alaska, it only takes one bad image of "contaminated" fish to affect the market price and sales of all fish from Alaska.

It doesn't make sense to mine coal in Alaska just to ship it to Asia, where it will be burned only to come back to Alaska in the form of mercury in our fish. If this project goes through, Asia will get the coal and Alaska will be left with the habitat destruction and health impacts. Keeping Alaska's coal in the ground means keeping that much more mercury out of our fish. We want to continue to have long-term, sustainable jobs with our fisheries, not boom-and-bust jobs with a coal mine.
